What May be Seen in Pennsylvania. Iwany one is debating about where to go this summer, we would advise them to see the "objects of interest" in our own State first, and then think of other pleasure trips. We have in the old Keystone State some of the most famous watering and summer places for which our country is noted. The scenery can scarcely be equalled anywhere. Passing up the great Pennsylvania Central Railroad, we should first stop at the beautiful town of Columbia, on the Susquebanna, from which place, after a rest that will be really recreative, we can essay delightful excursions to the famous Ephrata Mountain Springs, taking in the Moravian settlement of Litiz on the way. Further west we find Harrisburg, which is worthy of a visit from every Philadelphian. We may take a trip down the Cumberland Valley Railroad, and see the mountains, vales, and cities of that war-blasted, but now restored region. The great battle-neld of Gettysburg may be visited, and many other spots now rendered historic by the Rebellion. Returning again to Harrisburg, one may make an excursion to Huntingdon, a beautifully situated rural city, and on the way the rugged mountains loom up all around, whilst the picturesque Susquebannah river is found rippling alongside of the railway continually. From Huntingdon the pleasure-seeker can take the Huntingdon and Broadtop Railway for the Broadtop mountains, which rise up suddenly in boulder-like beauty on all sides. This region is especially wild, and while excellent living may be obtained at a cheap rate, the sportsman may seek and find rare and profitable enjoyment.

Invigorated by the pure and wholesome at mosphere of this region, we pass on to Bloody Run-a place that looks just as bad as its name -and we move forward eight miles further to Bedford, the railroad having been completed to that place. Beyond this neat little city, scarcely two miles, we are set down at the noted Bedford Springs, the waters of which are the most remarkable in the world for singular combina nons of mineral substances. The great Blue Spring is said to contain over one hundred different substances, and although the liquid is un' pleasant to the palate, it is invigorating to the system to a greater degree than any other mineral water. The scenery of this region is very grand, and the hunting and fishing unsurpassed. Near by Indian mounds may be seen, together with old British and American intrenchments, and the headquarters of one Colonel WASHINGTON, who did good service for his country there many years ago.

We can retire in good order at any time to Hantingdon, and proceed west to Cresson, Altoona, and other renowned summer resorts in the Alleghenies, mere mention of which is suffigient here.

A Hero of Four Wars.

From the Memphis Argus.

A MAN SERVES AS TEXAS BANGER, UNITED STATES BEGULAR, AND CONFEDERATE VOLUNTEER-IS WOUNDED TWENTY-SEVEN TIMES - IS TWICE LEFT FOR DEAD-RECOVERS, AND NOW THREATENS TO JOIN THE FENIANS-IS ROBBED IN THE STREET, AND GOES TO WORK LIKE AN HONEST MAN.

Some of the details of one of the most re markable careers that perhaps ever was experienced have come into our possession, and we give the account to our readers as we received it, only premising that we have not the remotest grounds for supposing the story exaggerated. The man is now employed on a farm two or three miles from this city, and has a good character for veracity.

About the year 1828 one of the strongest and guarded the trontiers of Texas was commanded by a North Caroliman named Worth, and among all its members none possessed more harding of or personal strength than the hero of this sketch. He was a Kentuckian was a splendid rider and dead shot, could hold his own with any of his comrades, in either drinking or fighting, and was looked upon as a dangerous man to tamper with. Of uncommonly amiable temper, however, he gave no cause of offense to any, and had the good-will of all.

He participated in all the wild fights with the Camanche Indians and the "Greasers" in which his command took an active part; and when the war for Texan independence commenced he was one of the arst to offer his arm to his adopted land. Suffice it to say that he served under General Houston through that memorable struggle with great credit, though as a private.

The declaration of war between the United States and Mexico, in 1846, found him again ready, and enlisting as a ranger under Jack Hayes, he followed the Lone Star again to triumph, receiving, as he had in previous campaigns, several honorable scars.

For several years after the cessation of hostilities he lived quietly on his ranche, but, tiring of such a tame course of existence, he joined a regiment of regular cavalry and pro-ceeded to Florida, where he served in the Seminole war until the capture of Billy Bowlegs and the conclusion of peace, when he was discharged and returned home, where he remained until the State of Arkansas passed her ordinance of secession, when he immediately joined a regi-ment of infantry from that State in the Confederate service and went to Virginia. At the battle of Sharpsburg, in Maryland, he received seven wounds, and lainted from pain and loss of blood. At the time that General Lee ordered the retreat to the Virginia side, the men had gathered up their dead and were making rude preparations to inter them.

Our hero by this means escaped being buried. and his comrades were startled a few days after by the report that he had been sent over the river and forwarded to the hospital at Staunton. He recovered, and soon after rejoined his former regiment, and proceeded with it to Georgia where he was engaged in the bloody battle of Chickamauga. Here he was shot torough the head (the ball entering at the right cheek-bone and passing out behind the left ear) and again left for dead. He was taken to Nashville, and, contrary to expectations, he again got well, made his escape from captivity, and returned to Virginia, where he served until the surrender of General Lee's army, when he walked the whole way to Arkansas, and thence home!

This brave old man-the hero of four wars and twenty battles, and the recipient of twenty-Mexicans, Seminoles, and Federals—landed at our city two or three weeks ago, and was car-roted and robbed in less than half an hour after leaving the boat. He is now working at nard labor, to make money to take him to his native Kentucky, whose loved soo his foot has not pressed for thirty-six years. He says that when his visit to his relatives is concluded, provided the Fenians have any chance of success, he will give them a litt.

An Indiana County Bigamist. THE ADVENTURES OF A MUCH-MARRIED MAN-HIS

ARREST IN ILLINOIS. The Davenport (Iowa) Gazette of June 11 says:—One John W. Collins, a vonng man who says:—One John W. Collins, a voung man who made his appearance in this city about one year ago, a saddler by trade, was arrested about 7 o'clock last evening by the police, at the residence of Mrs. Jones, on Main street, below Second, and taken to the ferry boat, where Marshal Cropper, of Rock Island, was waiting to receive him, on the charge of bigamy. The facts, as we learn them, are these:—Collins, who is quite good looking and about twenty-six years of age mot Miss Marshall Residence. age, met Miss Mary McKibben, of Rock Island, a very estimable young lady, at the Sanitary Fair in Chicago last summer, where she was attending one of the tables

Collins subsequently came to this city, and early last winter again met the young lady at one of the skating parks here. He renewed the acquaintance, which resulted in courtahip and marriage last March. The mother of the young lady having been informed, that as far as known here. Collins was a superficient of the collins was a superficient of the collins was a superficient of the collins. here, Collins "was a nice, steady young man good habits," the young couple were supposed to have made a good match, and for some weeks were happy, when Collins went to Muscatine and went to work, leaving his young wife at her mother's in Rock Island, until he could get ready to go to housekeeping.

Fortunately a letter for him was received by her, written by Collins' brother, telling him that he had better return and take care of his wife and child. This was a terrible blow to the young wife, who, when Collins returned from Musca tine, charged him with having deceived her, and baying another wife. This he denied, when she told him of the letters. He alleged it was only a joke of his brother's, but his "good talk" did not avail, and he was ordered from the house. He left, and a week ago last night, about 12 o'clock, he made his appearance in his wite's chamber, and awaking the lady, desired her to dress, and prepare to leave with him. He was armed with a batenet and revolver, and threatened it she made any outery he would kill her. A young lady who was rooming with Mrs. Collins was awakened, and the commotion aroused Mrs. Ayers, mother of Mrs. Collins, who came to the room. An alarm was given, and the bigamist fied. Yesterday he was seen in Rock Island. Marshal Cropper got upon his trace, following him to this side, where he was arrested as stated.

Since the receipt of the letter the young lady he so cruelly deceived has learned that Collins is a great scamp, and has a wife at Mowrin, Earnest township, Canada West (wife No. 1), also one in Washtenaw county. Mich gan (wire No. 2), and one said to be in Rocktord. Illinois (wife No. 3). Wife No. 2 learning of wife No. 1, has lately procured a divorce from the scamp. Collins is undoubtedly a case. When he learned of the letter from his brother being intercepted, he immediately wrote to the writer, beggins him to write to him again and deny it all, and try to pass it off as a lowe, giving as a reason that be had married into a wealthy and respectable family in Rock Island, and they would prosecute him and send him to the penitentiary. The brother, instead of complying, enclosed the letter to Mrs. Collins No. 4 at Rock Island, who has also received such information as proves that the "nice young man of good habits," who came to Rock Island as Lieutenant Collins, wearing a unifform, etc., is a great scamp; that he has been a bounty-jumper; and that he has long since been discarded by his relations, who reside in Indiana county, Pa. He is now in a fair way to return to a state of single-bless coness at Joliet, and his career of rascality ended. The young lady he married in Rock Island is only sixteen years of age, of most respectable family, well known there, where they have resided for the past four years.
